ALBANY MAN IS CONVICTED BY STATE GUN LAW

John B. Mannerstam, of Albany, the first person to be convicted under California's laws against possession of machine guns, was yesterday sentenced to serve from one to three years in San Quentin prison by Judge Leon Gray in Oakland.

Leo Sullivan, attorney for Mannerstam, immediately served notice of appeal, contending that the machine gun found in Mannerstam's Albany home was not "assembled and ready for use," and therefore did not constitute a "firearm" within the meaning of the law.

Mannerstam, a former president of the Pacific Arms Corporation of San Francisco, was arrested last November 17 in a raid by local and federal officers on his home, 845 Cleveland avenue, Al- bany. A machine gun, with tripod, extra barrel and ammunition, was found. He was found guilty by a jury, after ten minutes of delib- eration, on February 1. Maximum penalty for the crime is three years imprisonment and $5,000 fine.

Another charge, that of being an alien in possession of firearms, was dismissed yesterday on motion of J. Paul St. Sure, prose- cutor. A federal charge of run- ning arms into Mexico still re- mains.

Assessors To Discuss Means Of Overcoming Nullified Law

County Assessors of the sixteen northern counties of California will meet in San Francisco Mon- day to determine a policy of as- sessment in conformity to the State Supreme Court decision, nullifying the 7 per cent tax on foreign stocks and intangible securities. A similar meeting of Assessors in southern counties will be held in Los Angeles.

The conference will have to deal with how best to get the taxpayers to declare their securi- ties and to apply the higher rate of taxation called for under the old law, now revived. This means a "paper" increase from 7 to about 50 per cent.

"A heavy tax should not be put on these securities," Assessor Russell Wolden of San Fran- cisco said. "They have been de- clared in good faith under the 7 per cent law passed in 1925 and amended in 1927. I do not think the average taxpayer will attempt to conceal his securities if he is assured of fair treat- ment. I am for a policy of leni- ency, and I am strictly opposed to any scheme of retaxing these securities to make up for the difference between the 7 per cent paid and the higher rate under the old law, covering the last two years."

Attorney-General Webb yester- day gave out a statement that there was no cause for general alarm over the decision. He said he did not think there would be any undue tendency on the part of taxpayers to conceal their securities.

There is no occasion to fear a wholesale withdrawal of securi- ties from the 1928 roll, now be- ing prepared, and a consequent appreciable reduction in the per- sonal property tax returns, he reasoned adding: "It would be embarrassing for one thing and explanations would be in order, for another."

He pointed out the original 7 per cent law of 1925 failed of its purpose to bring out previous- ly hidden securities. In 1925, the year before the act became ef- fective, the counties assessed $889,847,121 in personal property (much of it in stocks, bonds and other securities), and that the total for the first year under the 7 per cent law dropped to $757,296,341. The solvent credits also dropped from $66,731,811 to $39,696,631 during the same period.

GRANTING OF BORE PERMIT TO BE DELAYED

MARTINEZ, March 10.—Because additional time is needed by at- torneys to prepare an ordinance for adoption, the Contra Costa board of supervisors will not award a promised franchise Mon- day to E. J. Fitzpatrick of Oak- land for construction of a high- way toll tunnel between Contra Costa and Alameda counties, south of the present inter-county store.

Fitzpatrick will appear Monday before Alameda county supervisors and urge that body to take favor- able action on his franchise ap- plication. Approval of the two bodies is necessary inasmuch as the por- tals of the bore are in the two counties.

Attorneys for Fitzpatrick expect that preparations of the ordinance to be presented for adoption by the supervisors will be ready on March 19. The Contra Costa su- pervisors have already evidenced intention of granting a fifty years' franchise.

Fitzpatrick and his associates expect to spend $1,500,000 on the project.

The supervisors at Monday's ses- sion will also postpone for a week award of a franchise to Roy O. Long of Berkeley for construc- tion of a $15,000,000 Contra Costa-Marin county bridge.

The continuance is caused by failure of State Engineer Edward Hyatt to determine yet whether he has authority to pass on the span lengths in Long's projected structure. As soon as he does the board will grant the franchise and certify the plans to the engineer.

Wife of Former Pittsburg Man Suicide in Paris

Ordering an immediate autopsy and investigation, French authori- ties yesterday refused a burial permit for Mrs. Sophy Wheeler Crosby of Boston, whose death Friday in Paris was attributed to poison.

Mrs. Crosby was the wife of Sumner Crosby, Pasadena pub- lisher and former resident of Pittsburg, Contra Costa county. She was found lying senseless in the hotel room of her husband, who had gone to Paris to com- plete arrangements for a divorce, suit for which was filed by Mrs. Crosby last July.

Crosby left Laguna Beach, Calif., where he had been editor for the South Coast News, a weekly pub- lication, in February with the an- nounced intention of assisting his wife in securing a divorce.

After residing for many years at Pittsburg, where he married his first wife, Miss Dolene Hooper, in 1901, Crosby moved to Alameda where he was elected to the assembly in 1910. He is a native of Boston and a graduate of Harvard College.

Friends of the couple reported yesterday that Mrs. Crosby was subjected to fits of melancholy. She left California two years ago and went to Paris.

Recreational Head Inspects Playgrounds Of City Parks

W. L. "Doc" Seawright, Rich- mond recreational director, had as his guest Maj. George W. Braden, of Pasadena, Coast repre- sentative of the Playground and Recreational Association of Ameri- ca, when the latter was here to survey the playground and re- creational facilities of the city. Maj. Braden had words of praise for the work of Seawright and John Miller, head of the Park and Recreational committee and the City Council in fostering parks and playgrounds for the city, as well as the supervised recreational activity.

It was pointed out by Maj. Braden that in the past four years more than $97,000 was spent in the purchase of property for the establishment of playgrounds and that more than 50 acres was ac- quired during that time.

He commended the people of Richmond in their possession of the Municipal Natatorium, which he characterized as the best year round pool in the state. The $97,031.55 spent by the city dur- ing the year of 1927 for recrea- tional purposes is far in advance of the $2 per capita spent by the average city in the fostering of recreation.

Maj. Braden alluded to the tourist travel which he stated brought $90,000,000 into the state annually, and that because of the large number of persons who get an impression of the country each year it is well worth while to provide adequate playground and recreational facilities. It is in this connection that the national organization, of which he is a repre- sentative, is fostering recreational areas for the future to include beach and inland playgrounds, mountain camps, and particularly forests and scenic areas.

At the present time a state wide survey is being conducted for the purpose of finding what land is available for public use, the cost of the land, and other matters connected with the ac- quiring of these choice areas.

W. L. "Doc" Seawright following the interview stated that "in his belief the city needs a Sierra mountain camp such as the camps owned by cities like Sacramento."

This Week's Attractions At The California Theater

ROMANCE of Scotland is shown in "ANNIE LAURIE", starring Lillian Gish which opens here tomorrow. Norman Kerry has the leading male role in this Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film.

"BEAU SABREUR," a sequel to "Beau Geste," opens a two-day engagement at the California Theatre Wednesday. The film is filled with romantic and melo-dramatic scenes.

LILLIAN GISH IN "ANNIE LAURIE" COMES MONDAY

When drama touches on a historical subject, should drama be changed and weakened to conform to fact—or should the facts be juggled slightly to make better drama?

This is the question that has irritated dramatists, novelists and critics for centuries, and recently the production of several historical pictures has roused a tumult of excitement on the same subject.

John S. Robertson, director of Lillian Gish's latest starring vehicle, "Annie Laurie," coming Monday to the California Theatre, gives an affirmative answer to the question, although in the present case there has been but little deviation from history.

"As long as we treat facts with reverence," he says, "and do not deviate too radically from the truth, I thoroughly believe in changing the facts to fit the drama, for while there are dramatic incidents in history, there are others that with a little help, can be made good drama and good drama is the greatest teacher of history. In fact, the historical drama is visual education as well as the finest entertainment, when properly done."

Miss Gish plays the title role in the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer spectacle, a vivid romance of the Scottish highlands, laid about the Massacre at Glencoe. She plays the historic daughter of Sir Robert Laurie, whose marriage into an enemy clan brought the peace that unified Scotland. Norman Kerry plays the leading male character, and the cast includes Hobart Bosworth, Russell Simpson, Brandon Hurst, David Torrence, Creighton Hale, Patricia Avery, Joseph Striker and other notable players.

The scenario is by Josephine Lovett, who collaborated with Robertson on "Sentimental Tommy," "The Enchanted Cottage" and others of his directorial triumphs. Weeks of research were necessary to construct the replicas of famous old Scottish castles, including historic Maxwellton, for the production. An entire woolen mill was leased to weave the twenty-six authentic tribal plaids that clothe the armies of Scottish warriors who battle with bayonets and broadsword in the huge production.

SCENE from "BABY MINE" with Karl Dane and Charlotte Greenwood which comes to the California Theatre Friday and Saturday. Fans are promised a comedy treat in this film.

Excellent Vaudeville Bill. Featured At California

At the California Theatre today a well balanced program of vaudeville—a worth-while picture and some topical short reels in addition feature the entertainment.

The initial offering will be a vision of gladiatorial beauty with Harry and Virginia Bellhizer indulging in some meritorious stunts of equilibrium and hand balancing. One of their tricks, the toe lift is worthy of special mention these artists being the only ones on the American Stage doing this wonderful feat. Prettily staged and costumed the presentation is a delight to the eye.

The Keystone Duo two neat appearing boys special in Banjo Guitar and a little harmony. Patrons will like these vaudevillians. With many musical comedy successes to their credit Cushing and Hutton are always a welcome addition to any program. Their songs are well selected their voices splendidly blended and their stage presence a joy to behold.

"The Rajah of Mirth is Johnny Larkin. This Ethiopian entertainer with his winning smile, undoubted comedy talent and a repertoire of story and song that is right up to the minute is a sure laugh winner and patrons will be loathe to see him go.

The Crystal Trio two agile young men and a pretty miss demonstrate some unusual stunts on rollers sandwiching some sensational tricks with some prettily staged figure making. The act is justifiably costumed and goes with a bang from start to finish.

Woman very tall. Incongruity and contrast make this so. The same applies to a team of two men—usually good friends and one the exact opposite of the other. We have one tall and solemn—the other short and frivolous—then put them through comical adventures. One is a complement to the other—in other words, average them and we'd have a normal person. Thus such a team can sum up all of human nature."

The new picture "portrays" Dane and Arthur as college boys. Charlotte Greenwood and Dane stage some of the most comical love scenes in the history of the screen. Ten—they all get into trouble over the stolen babies purloined to convince Dane of his fatherhood and the fun gets furious, fast and exceedingly frequent.

Louise Lorraine plays opposite Arthur in a "straight" role. P. Hugh Herbert and Sylvia Thibault adapted the screen play from the original stage version, adding a number of comical incidents to the original script.

There is a basic reason for the success of the "team," according to Harry Rapf, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer producer.

"Teams," he says "can form a combination by utilizing contrasts that only few snail comedians can achieve. A married couple walking down the street is funny if the man is very short and the

Ken Maynard In Adventure Film Today At The Richmond

Set a villain to catch a villain, and one becomes a comedian. This, at least, is the situation in "The Land Beyond the Law," the first National super-Western starring Ken Maynard, coming to the Richmond theatre today. When, in the picture, Maynard was appointed deputy marshal to bring law and order to a territory terrorized by bandits and gunmen, he set one band of thieves to help him catch the others.

Tom Santschi and Noah Young are the original villains of "The Country Beyond the Law." Santschi appears as Bob Crew, a cattle baron whose henchmen have been rustling cattle, killing pioneers and preventing the coming of the law so that Crew may rule that section. "Handsup" Harry, played by Noah Young, was the leader of a band of vagabonds whose occupation is best described by Harry's nickname.

Maynard, as Jerry Steele had no aid to settle the lawlessness. Hence, when he got into difficulties with Harry's band he walked right into their camp and appointed Harry and his men deputy sheriffs. From that point on Noah Young, instead of causing thrills, provokes laughter.

Other features on the same program include "That's No Excuse," an Excuse Maker comedy; and a Grantland Rice "Spotlight."

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. THE JAZZ SINGER, starring Al Jolson, is a Warner Bros. production of this novel. It is based upon the play by Samson Raphaelson.

SYNOPSIS
The son of Cantor Rabinowitz, a Jewish cantor, is a musical prodigy. Through Mary Dale, a dancer, Jack, now Jack Robin, becomes a musical comedy jazz singer. The Cantor, discovering his son's profession, disowns him. Jack's show opens the Eve of Yom Kippur. Dillings, the brother of the show, jealous of Mary's love for Jack, with draws his money, leaving Lee, the producer, dependent on Jack for success. The Cantor is ill and Mrs. Rabinowitz comes to dress rehearsal to beg her son to sing in the synagogue that night. Unable to withstand her pleadings Jack throws away his opportunity and returns home.

"I'm Jackie," he announced. "I want to see my father."
"I'm afraid you'd better not." The nurse looked doubtful. "The doctor said that he shouldn't be disturbed."
"I'll be very quiet—I just want to look at him," Jack pleaded.

But Mrs. Rabinowitz was already half way across the room, her eyes blinded with tears. "Jackie! Jackie!" she cried, clasping her son about the neck. "I knew you was coming, Jackie. I felt it in my heart. I knew you was coming! Oh, my Jackie, my darling! I knew you was coming!" The tears fell fast for the first time in many days. Her overburdened heart was finding the best balm it could find in the thought that her son was home.

"Mama! Mama! I had to come," Jack put his arms about his mother. "I couldn't stand it. I want to see Papa."

"Yeh, yeh! Please let him see his papa," Mrs. Rabinowitz was urging hysterically, half laughing, half crying. "Let him see his papa."

"Mama, have you had anything to eat?" Jack looked anxiously at his mother's careworn face. "No, she hasn't eaten a thing," the nurse informed him. "She'd better have something now."

"Sure, I'll eat," Mrs. Rabinowitz began bustling about with quick, hurried steps. "And you, too, Jackie. I make ready sure to eat before fasting." She started towards the kitchen.

"I don't want anything, Mama," Jack shook his head.

"Never mind, I make you anyway a glass of tea," she was already hurrying into the kitchen, her eyes shining.

"Eat a little something with her," the nurse turned to Jack kindly. "I'll encourage her to eat, and she's scarcely touched a mouthful for days." She returned to her patient in the next room and closed the door.

"See, already she is a new person," Yudelson exclaimed to Jack, following the figure of Mrs. Rabinowitz as she hurried happily about the kitchen.

Jack nodded. "Yes, I know," he leaned wearily on his elbows, chin in hand. "Yudelson," he looked up finally, "don't say anything to mama—but I left the theatre without even seeing my boss. Just as soon as the dress rehearsal was over I got hold of the stage manager and told him I wasn't going to show up tonight. I beat it before I saw anybody. Well—you were there. You heard what my boss said about my leaving. You know what I told you about the show?" He sighed drearily.

"Sure," Yudelson agreed, impressed by Jack's confidence in him and the fact that he had given up an opportunity which entailed so much money. "It's lots of money, Jackie, and you're throwing it away for your papa!"

"Oh, it isn't the money, Yudelson," Jack said sadly. "It's the idea that Mr. Lee believed in me—he staked everything on me, reputation and everything, and I—I left him flat. It wasn't fair. I wasn't playing the game. That's the thing that hurts me. God! I'd give anything to justify Lee's belief in me, and now—now—" he got up and walked away, looking about the room.

"Never mind, Jackie, never mind," Yudelson tried to console the boy. "You shouldn't worry from bosses. A papa is hard to beat—but bosses, there's plenty."

"Not for me," Jack said abruptly. "I'm not a papa's boy," he said, and he looked at the nurse. "I'm not a papa's boy," he said, and he looked at the nurse.

To his dull, unfeeling mind it did not seem unnatural to see the boy kneeling there beside the bed. All day he had been dreaming that Jackie had returned. He was so weak that he was unable to distinguish between dreams and reality. And it didn't seem to matter. He made no attempt to segregate illusion from material truth. There was his son, swathing his father's

BEAU SABREUR TO BE SHOWN AT CALIFORNIA

In movies, sheiks are handsome male creatures, but in real life they're not so dashing, nor are they as graceful, dignified and well poised as they're made out to be.

"Why a girl wants to call her boy 'sheik' I can't figure," declares Evelyn Brent, who plays the role of Mary Vanburgh in Paramount's "Beau Sabreur," which will be at the California Wednesday, the sequel to "Beau Geste," now in course of production.

LUXURY NOTED IN NEW NASHES

The introduction of the delightful new Nash special six four door sedan brings a new degree of luxury to the moderate-priced car field. H. P. Huddleston, local dealer declared yesterday.

Despite its attractive low cost, this special Nash model is in every detail a luxurious car. It is strikingly toned in custom lacquer colors, enhancing the smartness of its modish lines, he continued.

The upholstery is rich taupe mohair, the interior panelings are of genuine walnut while there is exquisitely fashioned hardware throughout. A handsome vanity case and smoking set, with electric lighter are standard equipment.

A stout, commodious steel truck is built in the rear. In fact, the special six four-door sedan provides for every nicety and convenience of town and country travel.

Two of the most popular cars in the entire Nash special six lines, according to our sales figures, are the four-door sedan and the two-door sedan models. Both are powered, as are every product of the Nash Motors Company, with the famous Nash 7-bearing crankshaft motor, the world's smoothest type of automotive power plant. They possess a performance ability that thrills both driver and passengers.

Men and women of taste who want all the luxury and richness of a fine sedan concentrated in an oval of smaller and friendlier proportions will find the Special Six tailor-made suits them with tailor-made exactness for it is a striking offering.

Chevrolet Scout Car Tours California Mission Chain

Civilization came to California over El Camino Real, the highway of the missions. From San Diego to Sonoma these ruined edifices still stand as mute reminders of the trying days of the early occupation of California. Distant from each other by one day's journey afoot, they were the centers of hospitality in the early years of the century and played a most important part in the development of California. Over El Camino Real a Chevrolet scout car went the other day, sent out by the Chevrolet Motor Company.

Of the Missions about the Bay of San Francisco, Dolores was the most important located as it was within the boundaries of the city which was named after the patron saint of Franciscans.

The Missions of San Rafael and Sonoma were outposts established by the Spaniards to withstand the inroads of the Indians and the Russians who had settled at Fort Ross on the northern peninsula.

Mission San Jose, Santa Clara and Santa Cruz, in the heyday of their power, were wealthy settlements with a large Indian population and considerable wealth in sheep and cattle.

In the city of Monterey was established a station in honor of San Carlos de Borromeo. The Mission was moved later to the Carmel Valley and here it was that Father Junipero Serra was buried. This was the headquarters of the entire Mission chain for a considerable time. It was from Carmel that the expedition set out to seek a new place for the establishment of a Mission to the north and it was this expedition, commanded by Gaspar de Portola, which discovered San Francisco Bay and led to the establishment of the Mission Dolores.

San Miguel, San Antonio de Padua and Soledad, are three ruined stations that played a great part in the history of the Franciscans in California. Soledad is nothing but a heap of adobe bricks. The chapel still remains of San Miguel and the walls of San Antonio are still standing.

These three Missions, wealthy in the early days and now fast lapsing into decay, are most interesting objectives to the California motorist.

Just outside of the town of Lompoc are the ruins of La Purisima. The adobe walls, fast falling into ruin, rise into the midst of a wheat field far off the main line of travel. A few miles away is Mission Santa Ynez and to the south is San Luis Obispo which is still used as a Mission church and is one of the landmarks of the old city of San Luis Obispo.

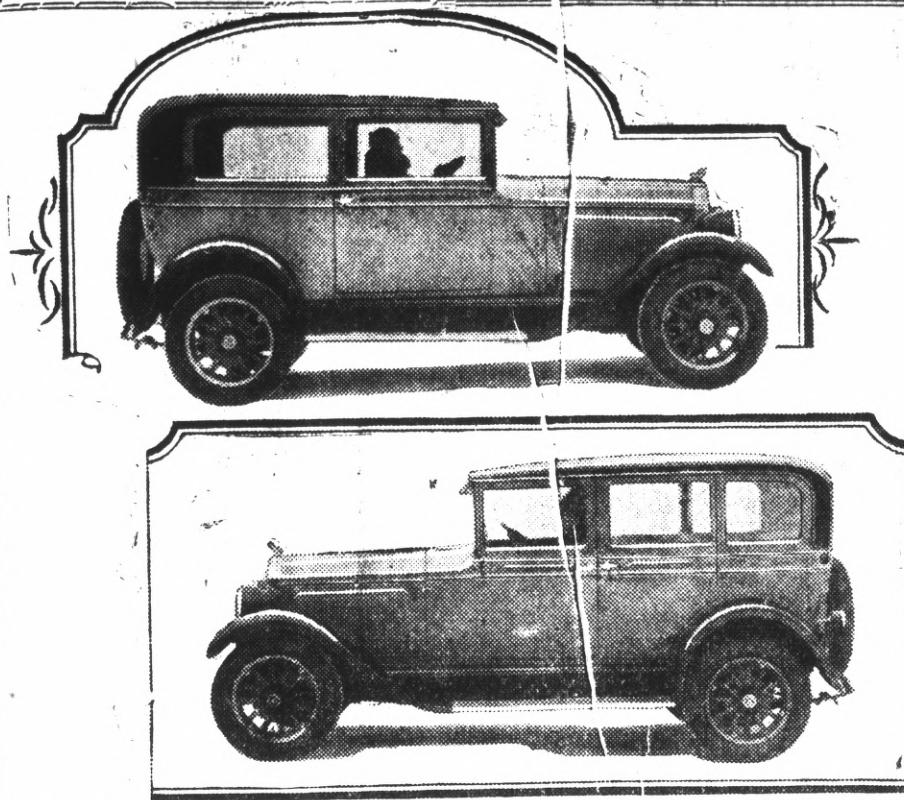

One of the most popular tourist objectives on the coast highway between San Francisco and Los Angeles is Mission Santa Barbara. Its beautiful setting on the slopes of the hills with the ocean in the distance lend an atmosphere of romance that makes it a most popular resort for the traveler on El Camino Real.

Mission San Buenaventura, too, still carries on its regular church services and is the mission church of that district. About Los Angeles there are a number of mission churches including San Fernando with its long arcades and rambling structure and Mission San Gabriel which has long been famous for the Mission play. Within the city itself, is the Plaza church which, although never established as a Mission, was a part of the great plan for the establishment of a complete line of religious outposts in Alta California.

Two of the most picturesque of the Mission stations lie south of Los Angeles; one, San Luis Rey, which once boasted the greatest wealth of any of the churches and San Juan Capistrano which, with its well preserved garden and bell tower are familiar to every tourist from the advertising literature which has been sent out by California.

Many of the documents of the early Mission days in California, including the musical scrolls and the vestments employed in the services of the church are kept in the museum at San Juan Bautista at the foot of the San Juan Grade south of San Francisco.

Unusual lines of beauty characterize these new cars, while numerous tests have brought about a high standard of performance in speed, power, stamina and economy of operation.

SERVICE ADVICE FOR BUICK OWNERS IS GIVEN BY LOCAL DEALER, CLARK C. KRATZER

With the advent of spring and its insistent urge to the motorist to be over the hills and far away comes Clark C. Kratzer, local dealer, who suggests for California's vast army of Buick owners a series of simple precautionary measures which can do no harm to any car that has been in winter retirement.

"Now is the ideal time of the year to make a thorough check of the entire car," Kratzer states. "By observing a simple list of suggestions much money and grief will be saved in many cases." He continued:

It is important to remember that on Buicks equipped with purifiers or AC filters that these be changed at least every 10,000 miles, whether plugged or not. Thus the life of the motor will be greatly improved and the viscosity of the oil unweakened by foreign matter.

Watch your brakes, and under no circumstances allow a wash-rack outfit, service station or gasoline to use a solution of coaloil, distillate or gasoline to cut the grease while washing your car. Insist that soap be used. Otherwise results will be ruinous to both mechanism and effectiveness of the brakes. This cannot be emphasized too strongly.

On cars having gone over 8,000 miles breaker points should be cleaned and readjusted. All water in the radiator should be drained and the radiator flushed slowly with a hose while the engine is kept slowly running. Examine your fan belt and be sure to carry an extra belt. See that the fan hub on the 1927 and 1928 model Buicks is kept filled with oil.

Have your wheels aligned, but under no circumstances permit bending of your axles under guise of "adjusting."

Watch the tire inflation carefully, and in cases where speed is increased to over forty miles an hour add six pounds of pressure.

TRAFFIC PATROLS FOR RURAL SCHOOLS ORGANIZED

Protection of children attending rural schools against the hazards of highway traffic is being arranged in eleven counties of Northern and Central California. In these counties, excellent progress is being made in the organization of Public School Traffic Reserves by officers of the State Motor Vehicle Division traffic force with the cooperation of the Public Safety Department of the California State Automobile Association.

At every rural school in Solano County where pupils must cross traffic arteries to attend classes, units of boy traffic patrols have been organized by Captain Frank Silva of the state force. Tehama County where the work is in charge of Captain Minor Carter, reports similar excellent progress. Traffic officers and association representatives are also engaged in this safety work in Sutter, Nevada, Fresno, Sacramento, San Mateo, Placer, Madera, Siskiyou and Monterey counties.

The State Motor Vehicle Division plans to carry this activity to all rural schools under arrangements made with the Automobile Association for extension of the Public School Traffic Reserve organization to every county. The Association, with the cooperation of school and municipal authorities, has organized units of juvenile traffic officers in thirty-nine principal cities of Northern and Central California.

ROOMINESS IS ONE FEATURE OF CHEVROLETS

Beauty, style appeal and unusual roominess are commanding features of the new bodies rounding out the line of bigger and better automobiles for 1928 displayed at the Automobile Show by the Chevrolet Motor company.

Seven body types comprise the line—five closed and two open models. All are in new Duco finish—five smart color combinations on the seven models.

All are roomier than a year ago, and several types are considerably longer. The four inches added to the wheelbase of the car this year lift every model in appearance into the big car field.

The coach body is five inches longer than the one used in 1927. The distinctive, big car air which this extra length provides is strikingly illustrated by a comparison of the new coach with its immediate predecessor. The sedan likewise, has had two and one-half inches added to the body.

The closed types are the Imperial Landau, the Sedan, the Coach, the Sport Cabriolet and the Coupe, and the open models the touring and roadster.

Metal inlay panels finished in attractive Duco are provided on the doors of the sport Cabriolet and the Imperial Landau. Decorated period hardware provides an added touch.

Coupe, sport cabriolet and roadster have roomy weatherproof rear decks, while a removable waterproof cover for the deck is standard equipment with the roadster and coupe.

The durable upholstery on every model has been selected to blend attractively with the exterior finish.

The open models have the seats covered with Fabrikoid. Other equipment includes double, adjustable windshield and rubber weatherstrips, side curtains opening with the doors, large glass windows.

Treat Criminally Inclined To Prevent Waves Of Crime

ATLANTA, Ga., March 7. Prevention of crime by the isolation and treatment of those criminally inclined was urged by Dr. E. G. Davis, president of the Fulton County Medical Society, in his annual address before the organization at the Piedmont Driving Club. Excerpts from this address have just been prepared for publication by a special committee of the society.

"Georgia," he declared, "is extremely backward in her care of the feeble-minded and criminally inclined. This should be promptly corrected by active legislative measures, by the establishment of a well-regulated institution presided over by proper psychiatrists, and in addition colonizing to those not so seriously affected, and having them cared for by those properly trained, under direction of properly equipped physicians."

The publicity that has been given by the recent murders and other crimes should arouse us to the importance of taking action upon this matter as early as possible.

REPORT GIVEN ON STATE TRAFFIC FORCE ARRESTS

Commands to "pull to the curb" and explain alleged traffic law violations were given to 234, 738 motorists last year by state traffic officers, according to a State Motor Vehicle Division report received by the California State Automobile Association.

An average fine of $35 per violator on all charged is revealed in the department record showing that 13,373 motorists paid fines.

Total receipts from fines were over $468,000.

The constant campaign against the "one-eyed" automobiles and other cars needing headlight adjustments caused the technical arrest of 104,933 motorists, who were ordered to have their lights adjusted.

Program Planned By Language Classes

Folk songs and solo dances are on the program to be given Friday evening, March 23, in the assembly hall of the high school by the French and Spanish classes of the school. Three short plays will also be presented and refreshments will be served.

CHRYSLER CARS CONTINUE TO SHOW BRIGHT COLORS IN ALL NEWER MODELS

The vogue of bright colors which has featured automobile fashions the past year, shows no sign of passing, and has been strongly emphasized at the 1928 New York and Chicago national shows. Experienced judges seem to agree that the vivid and picturesquely named shadings which replaced the former somber and monotonous finish of motor cars are destined to occupy a permanent place in public preference.

However, say Chrysler color technicians, the trend is toward a more harmonious use of color in chromatic blends which employ various related shades of the same basic color, rather than toward sharp contrasts.

Feminine taste largely guides the selection of new automobiles just as it shapes the great majority of expenditures by American families, and it has evidently decreed a permanent vogue for the light, luscious tones which have been so popular of late in home furnishings, in dress and in hospitality, though of course the more restrained finishes are still available for their adherents.

Americans of today, educated in recent years to a heightened appreciation of artistic expression—people of moderate means as well as the wealthy—have acquired an assured consciousness of quality and have definitely left behind them the timid conservatism of former times. They know the beauty of color and confidently trust their knowledge to guide their indulgence in its use.

The prospect at present is therefore that color combinations will continue to be chosen in 1928, with scientific selection of color values, as during recent months, and with special consideration to their adaptability for each particular type and model of car.

Chrysler color technicians, who played the leading role in the trend away from the archaic, somber blacks which had established a melancholy monopoly in the minds of motor car builders until about four years ago, point out that the duotone contrasts which featured their original production in 1924 remained the prevailing vogue in motor car fashions until a year ago, when Chrysler was again in the forefront of the change to a new color fashion, characterized by chromatic harmonies and blends rather than widely contrasting hues.

One of the salient points of Chrysler color policies, these experts point out, is the practice of making frequent changes of color combinations for all body types. The practice, it is claimed, unites the advantages of standard and custom car buying by permitting the practice of economy while enabling the purchaser to gratify individual preference regarding all details, including color.

The Smoothness and Snap That All America is Demanding

There's no longer any doubt about it. America is demanding more and more from its automobiles. More power... more style... more speed. And above all else... more smoothness and snap.

Smoothness that brings to driving new pleasures and new delights. Snap that responds to the traffic signal as a sprinter responds to the gun. Smoothness and snap that you know are the very essence of motoring satisfaction. Smoothness and snap that you find revealed in the All-American Six.

You find them there because of Oakland's big, impressive brute of an engine which starts so easily 'way below zero. Because of its famous GMR cylinder head... force feed fuel pump... 79-lb. crankshaft... generously oversized connecting rods and other vital parts.

Because of its ruggedly constructed chassis... its bigger clutch and smoothly shifting gears... and the super-precision construction demanded in the All-American principle of design.

Once you've experienced its smoothness... once you've witnessed its snap... you'll know why the All-American Six is winning such tremendous success!

WILLYS-KNIGHT STANDARD SIX MAKES DEBUT

Broadening the field for Knight-engineered cars by the introduction of an entirely new popular priced Willys-Knight car was announced here today by Heartz and McQuone, local dealer.

The newcomer to the sleeve-valve field, which is known as the Willys-Knight Standard Six, will be a companion car in the $1,100 price field to the current Willys-Knight Great Six and the Willys-Knight Special Six in the higher priced brackets.

In virtually every respect the new Willys-Knight Standard Six retains the same characteristics of design, performance, and appearance as featured by the Special Six and the Great Six.

A range of colorful body models comprising a Coach, 4-door Sedan, Coupe and the Touring will form the standard six body line. An exceptionally complete novations in interior appointments, together with striking new lines in body design are presented.

Powered with a 2 15-16 by 3-7-8 in. bore and stroke the engine gives a maximum brake h.p. of 46 at 3,000 r. p. m. The power plant employs a seven-bearing balanced crankshaft, an oil rectifier, and bohnalite aluminum pistons, conventional clutch, transmission and axle units are of special design while the chassis of 109 1-2 in. wheelbase carrying 29 by 5.50 balloon tires is equipped with four-wheel brakes.

The new car employs a unit type power plant which is secured to the frame at four points, the rear engine supports being inclined to the rear at an angle of 45 degrees and attached to a corresponding pressed steel member riveted to the frame. This design tends to reduce engine vibration and make for smoother running at all speeds.

The conventional Knight engine practice of employing two cast iron sleeves for each cylinder is employed. The cylinder group, cast en bloc is bolted to the crankcase with the oil pan formed of pressed steel. The eccentric shaft supported in seven bearings is operated by a silent drive timing chain of 1 1-4 in. width and equipped with an automatic tightener.

Seven bronze back babbit lined bearings of 2 1-4 in. diameter
